To Whom It May Concern:

Our business experienced some traumatic changes both internal in regards to personnel and external from competition. We were faced with making major changes that would impact the future of our organization and it's employees.

We were aware of the May company from fellow business associates as well as research on the Internet. We picked them for help.

We had ideas in regards to improving our profitability. Many areas would need attention as well as validation of our assumptions.

The associates of May company were contacted and were on site in short notice. Within a five-hour period they were able to put a game plan together that fit our needs. More importantly it also was in unison with the intricacies of our industry.

Savings were identified that are realistic. In addition to real bottom line improvement all of our ideas were put into an overall strategic plan that will keep us a step above the competition in the future.

We were totally satisfied with the upfront work of the Executive Analyst along with the Project Director and the people we worked with, the Staff Analyst's.

Sincerely,
