Dear Sir,

I originally had doubts as to whether your company could benefit my company and my situation. I reluctantly accepted based on my fathers statement that he thought you could.

The analyst that came to us seemed a little bothersome to me because he did not understand the BIG picture. After a few hours with him, things started coming together on both ends. I felt much more comfortable and my father and I decided this was exactly what we need and decided to further our relationship with your company.

The Management Service group came in the very next morning and started off with an interview with my father and me to determine exactly what we wanted. At that point your management team and us started a game plan.

At the end of my beginning with George S. May I have to say that I have been totally overwhelmed with all the information and data that your services have provided to me. I now have the confidence to proceed with taking control of my company. The recommendations and procedure will be backup to my understanding since I have no employees as of now to train. I am looking forward to showing how well I understood and accomplished what has been set out for me when they return during the retainer. I want to thank the George S. May Company and all their employee's efforts and I would like you to know I am very satisfied.

Sincerely,

President/Owner
